Part III:
Institution of Excellence and the Self-Study (Form A)
INSTITUTION OF EXCELLENCE

When the Adventist Accrediting Association accredits an institution under the terms of Form A, it will be considering both the overall quality of the institution as a tertiary institution and the way the college/university operation and life fully aligns with institutional and Seventh-day Adventist identity and mission. Within these parameters, an institution of excellence will be defined as an institution that meets the following standards:

1. A clear sense of Seventh-day Adventist mission and identity, reflected in statements of philosophy, vision, mission, objectives, core values, and ethics; and evidenced in the life of the institution.

2. A coherent and vibrant spiritual life program, encapsulated in a spiritual master plan that widely involves and impacts the institution and its communities.

3. A coherent governance structure, organization, and administrative leadership that provide strong mission-driven direction to the institution, that ensure the institution’s educational objectives are met, and that nurture a campus environment characterized by effective communication, inclusive decision-making, and strong internal continuous quality improvement.

4. A financial operation that effectively supports institutional mission and Adventist identity, and evidences efficient management and a strong financial base, including support from the church.

5. A curriculum that is of an equivalent standard to other tertiary institutions both in the country and within the Seventh-day Adventist college/university sector, and that meets the mission and objectives of the institution and church, preparing students for service in the church and in the broader society.

6. Faculty and staff personally supportive of the institutional mission, effective in their transmission of both their discipline and biblical values in the classroom, along with administrative processes to ensure adequate faculty and staff development, and evaluation procedures that include mission-focused elements.

7. Library, resource centers, and information and communication technology services that provide adequate resources to support the academic program, and policies to adequately address ethical and mission concerns.

8. Clear academic policies and records procedures that are efficient and secure, and which reflect best practice in tertiary institutions.

9. Student services that provide solid support for the personal and spiritual needs of students, and which model and nurture Seventh-day Adventist lifestyle in a constructive manner in all areas of student life.

10. A physical plant that provides adequate and well-maintained facilities for the development of a quality education program, and development plans that are supportive of the institutional strategic plan.

11. A public relations program that provides an opportunity for dialogue with external constituencies, that results in useful and accurate feedback to the institution, and that positions the institution and its mission positively in the minds of the various constituent groups.

12. Pastoral and theological education with a curriculum that is of an equivalent standard to other tertiary institutions offering pastoral and theological education within the Seventh-day Adventist college/university sector, and that meets the mission and objectives of the institution and church, particularly in the preparation of students for denominational service.

These standards of excellence and their corresponding criteria for review will be used as the benchmarks for evaluation by AAA, and the basis for the institutional Self-Study.
INSTITUTIONAL SELF-STUDY FUNCTIONS

The development of an institutional Self-Study is a significant part of the accreditation process. It serves the following vital functions:

1. For an educational institution, it provides an opportunity for a formal review and evaluation of its mission, objectives, resources, and outcomes, and the relationships among them.
2. For the Adventist Accrediting Association evaluation team, it provides the detailed information that enables them to familiarize themselves with the institution and its direction, and draft relevant commendations and recommendations.
3. For the Adventist Accrediting Association and the institution, it reveals the strengths and weaknesses of the institution in relation to how well it meets the accreditation standards. Thus, the Self-Study indicates the areas where the institution must grow and improve, as a means of achieving or maintaining eligibility as an accredited institution.
4. For other colleges, universities, and accrediting bodies, it provides a mechanism with which to determine the value of the credits and degrees offered by the institution.

SELF-STUDY PROCESS

An institution is advised to start the Self-Study process as soon as it has received notification of the AAA visit. The Self-Study should be developed with wide input across the campus. A steering committee (and, if appropriate, subordinate task forces) should be appointed to prepare the document.* The completed Self-Study shall be approved by the administrative committee of the institution and will be sent to the AAA liaison for the institution at least one month prior to the accreditation visit. The AAA liaison will distribute copies of the Self-Study to team members upon receiving the institutional report.

The Self-Study should demonstrate accomplishment of each benchmark and should provide a reflective analysis and evaluation of institutional processes. The AAA expects to find an institution that is self-reflective and proactive in development of its spiritual mission and identity.

*Explanatory note: Ideally, every staff member would be appointed to one of the 12 sub-committees. This can be a good opportunity for staff and faculty to be fully involved in periodic meetings (weekly or bi-weekly) for a number of months prior to the visit. In these sessions, the committee carefully works through each CFR, constructing appropriate surveys, conducting interviews or focus groups, analyzing data, and drawing relevant conclusions. This reflective process can result in:

- Staff involvement, as individuals from the various areas of the institution engage in the process of continuous improvement.
- Staff cohesion, as staff in different areas and disciplines engage meaningfully in the mission, vision, and direction of the institution.
- A safe context for professional conversations.
- Distribution of responsibility, avoiding an inordinate burden on a single individual or small group.
- Eager anticipation of the AAA visit, knowing that every aspect has been thoroughly explored and well-documented.

SELF-STUDY INSTRUMENT

There will be two sections to a Form A Self-Study.
Self-Study Section A

Section A of the Self-Study will respond to the recommendations from the latest regular or interim accreditation visit, with any additional recommendations from a focused visit.

The institution will identify:

1. Each item that has been fully implemented, including how the implementation was accomplished and evidences of its fulfillment.
2. Each item that has not been fully implemented and the reason for non-compliance.

In their response to Section A, the team will consider the percentage of recommendations that have been met, if there is clear evidence that they have been met, and if the reasons for not meeting recommendations are acceptable.

Self-Study Section B

Section B of the Self-Study will provide evidence in response to the twelve standards with corresponding Criteria for Review (CFRs) identified by AAA as indicators of excellence in Form A institutions.

In the tables that follow, each Area with its corresponding Standard is identified. This is followed in the left-hand column by a list of the CFRs that are indicators of excellence to which the institution will respond in its Self-Study.

Next to each CFR in the right-hand column are preferred evidences that serve to document compliance. In some instances, examples for clarity have also been provided. Where appropriate, institutions may provide alternate evidence highlighting strengths of a particular CFR. In the case of alternate evidence, the institution is advised to consult with the General Conference Department of Education prior to the submission of the Self-Study, to verify that the proposed evidence will be deemed applicable and adequate.

In certain Areas, the CFRs call for evidence based on the results of anonymous surveys conducted by the institution with current students, faculty and staff, members of the Board, and/or alumni. These surveys should ask questions regarding perceptions of the effectiveness of the institution in meeting its mission and objectives, among other matters, and should be conducted within one year prior to the date scheduled for the visit.

While the Self-Study and the Site Visit focus on outcomes, it is acknowledged that some of the most important outcomes, such as spiritual commitment and ethical behavior evidenced throughout the life of a graduate, are difficult to measure, and, furthermore, difficult to attribute to a specific part of the student’s educational experience due to the influence of intervening variables. Consequently, inputs and processes are utilized as proxies for such outcomes.

A Self-Study will therefore include, and a Visiting Team will consider, a variety of both direct and indirect indicators to evidence progress and results. These indicators may include quantitative measures (such as an attendance rate or student/teacher ratio) and qualitative evidences (such as individuals’ judgments or perceptions regarding a topic), as well as performance indicators at various stages of the results chain, including inputs, processes, outputs, and impacts. Together, these provide a platform for evidence-based decisions regarding priorities, strategies, activities, and outcomes.²

² At various junctures through Section B, reference is made to the mission and beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist church and to the philosophy of Adventist education. The mission and beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist church may be found online at www.adventist.org, as well as in various denominational publications. A document summarizing the philosophy of Adventist education may be found at http://education.gc.adventist.org, at http://adventistaccreditingassociation.org/, as well as in various theme issues of The Journal of Adventist Education (available online at http://www.jae.adventist.org).
Area 1: Philosophy, Mission, and Objectives

Standard: The institution has a clear sense of Seventh-day Adventist mission and identity, reflected in statements of philosophy, vision, mission, objectives, core values, and ethics, and evidenced in the life of the institution.

| 1.1 The institution has clear and current Board-approved statements of philosophy, vision, mission, and objectives and/or core values, that are congruent with Seventh-day Adventist mission and values, and with the Adventist philosophy of education, and are readily available to constituents, employees, and current and prospective students. | - Published institutional statements of philosophy, vision, mission, objectives, and core values<sup>1a</sup>
- The most recent Board action approving these institutional statements
- A description of the processes of development or revision and approval of the corresponding statements
- An explanation of how these institutional statements share the mission and values of the Church, as well as its philosophy of education<sup>1b</sup>
- A description of how institutional statements are made available to constituents, employees, and current and prospective students |
| 1.2 The institutional statements of philosophy, vision, mission, objectives, and core values are reflected in the policies and procedures of the institution, and in various aspects of institutional life. | - A description of the alignment between institutional statements and the corresponding statements of institutional units
- A representative sample of institutional policies and procedures that operationalize institutional statements
- The profile of desired attributes for all graduates
- Results of surveys of current students, faculty and staff, Board members, and alumni surveys regarding perceptions of the effectiveness of the institution in meeting its mission and objectives |
| 1.3 The institution is actively and broadly involved in supporting the mission of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. | - A description of institutional involvement in and support of the mission of the Church<sup>1c</sup>
- Examples of how the institution’s educational and co-curricular programs prepare students to commit to and participate in the mission of the Church
- Evidence of the active support of church standards and mission by the personal commitment of administrators, faculty, and staff to biblical values and lifestyle
- Examples of a positive relationship between the institution and its local church, conference, union, and/or division
- Examples of how the institution cooperates with other Adventist educational institutions |
1.4 The institution is responsive to the needs of its constituencies, to denominational and national/regional developments, and to societal and educational trends.

- Results from surveys of the needs and expectations of institutional constituencies
- An analysis of key developments within Adventist higher education as these relate to the institution
- An analysis of denominational and local demographics
- A description of the institution’s perceived role and place in denominational and societal contexts
- An analysis of the perceived impact of educational issues and trends in the country/region, with a sample of committee minutes of discussions of current issues and trends
- A description of how the college/university maintains its ethos as an Adventist institution while relating and responding to these issues and trends
- Evidence of institutional success in maintaining both local credibility and denominational focus

1.5 Student experiences and learning outcomes are congruent with the institutional statements of philosophy, vision, mission, objectives, core values, and ethics.

- Results of student and alumni surveys that assess the alignment of experiences while at the institution with the values, beliefs, and priorities embedded in the official statements of the institution
- Results of assessments that determine the extent to which the values, beliefs, and priorities of the institution are reflected in the lives of its graduates and alumni

1.6 The institution has clear, readily available, and current Board-approved statements of professional ethics/code of conduct (including a policy addressing sexual misconduct), congruent with the Adventist philosophy of education, compliance with which is required of all employees and students.

- Institutional codes of ethics/conduct for employees and for students
- A description of the procedure for approval of the codes of ethics/conduct and to ensure alignment with the Adventist philosophy of education
- Explanation of the way compliance is required and ensured of all administrators, faculty, staff, and students

1.7 Plans for development and improvement within this area.

Explanatory notes:

1a Where schools/departments have mission statements, these should also be included. In larger institutions, these statements are expected.

1b Concepts that contribute toward a clear Seventh-day Adventist identity include:
- The nature of God (e.g., as Creator, Sustainer, and Redeemer) and the nature of humankind (e.g., human value and God-given potential)
- The nature of learning (e.g., God as the ultimate Source of knowledge and wisdom)
- The great conflict between good and evil, including the fall, redemption, and restoration
- Whole-person development, including character formation
– The integration of faith, learning, and life
– The role of ethics and aesthetics
– Respect for the environment and for diverse cultures
– Education for this life and for eternity
– Other fundamental beliefs of the Church, including the Sabbath and the Second Coming

Examples of institution involvement and support include:
– Membership and participation of institutional employees in Church organizations and initiatives
– Employee and student involvement in outreach and evangelistic activities of the Church
– Formalized collaborative relationships with other Church entities, including its institutions of higher education

Examples of assessment elements include:
– The experience of a whole-person formation, including physical, intellectual, spiritual, and social dimensions
– Evidences of commitment to a life of witness and service
– Incorporation of a healthy lifestyle
– Active support of the ministry, activities, and ideals of the Seventh-day Adventist Church
Area 2: Spiritual Development, Service, and Witness

2.5 Students experience spiritual development, and a deeper commitment to social responsibility and witness, because of their educational experience at the institution.

- Results of assessments that document the extent to which students experience and graduates/alumni attain spiritual development while at the institution, as well as the factors that may have contributed to or detracted from this development.
- Results of student and alumni surveys that seek to assess the level of participation in service, both while at the institution and after graduation, as well as the development of a personal service ethic.
- Results of student and alumni surveys that assess the level of participation in witness, both while at the institution and after graduation, as well as the development of a worldview in which they see themselves as active witnesses for God.

2.6 Plans for development and improvement within this area.

Explanatory notes:

2a The institutional spiritual master plan should be in harmony with “A Guidebook for Creating and Implementing a spiritual master plan on Seventh-day Adventist Campuses of Higher Education,” available online at the AdventistAccreditingAssociation.org website. At minimum, the spiritual master plan should incorporate:
- A list of beliefs, values, and behavioral outcomes to be conveyed to faculty, staff, and students, based on institutional philosophy, mission, objectives, and/or core values.
- A summary of the results from surveys of present status as well as of the spiritual needs of faculty, staff, and students.
- A listing of specific objectives for the intentional transmission of Seventh-day Adventist beliefs, principles, values, and lifestyle.
- A description of corresponding curricular and co-curricular programs and activities.
- A presentation of corresponding action plans, including budget requirements, timelines, and responsibilities.

2b Examples of additional supporting evidence which may be included:
- Samples of minutes of the Spiritual Life Committee and other committees that deal with spiritual development.
- Samples of survey instruments utilized with faculty, staff, and students.
- The plan of spiritual events for the current semester/quarter. This may include devotional and worship opportunities, campus ministry activities, outreach and mission programs, small group interactions, residence hall programming, etc.
- Samples of evaluation instruments used in assessing the effectiveness of the spiritual master plan.

2c Examples of the primacy of spiritual development could include:
- Time and physical space set aside for prayer and reflection.
- Time dedicated to corporate worship without the imposition of conflicting events.

2d Examples of student nurture, service, and community engagement programs may include Bible study groups, drug and alcohol prevention, evangelism, campus ministry retreats, periods of spiritual emphasis, chapels, vespers, church services, Sabbath School, and personal witness.
Examples of elements in the corresponding job descriptions include (a) line of authority and responsibility; (b) purpose of the position; (c) role in the involvement in the development and implementation of the spiritual master plan; and (d) relationships with administration, faculty, staff, students, and denomination, including the Division Chaplaincy Endorsing Department.

Examples of elements that may be incorporated in the assessments of spiritual development include a sense of a deeper relationship with God, of the assurance of salvation, of a Spirit-filled life, of growth in faith, of the need of Bible study and prayer, of the formation of a biblical worldview to guide one’s life, and of a better understanding of and commitment to the beliefs and practices of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.
Area 3: Governance, Organization, and Administration

Standard: The institution has a coherent governance structure, organization, and administrative leadership that provide strong mission-driven direction to the institution, that ensure the institution’s educational objectives are met, and that nurture a campus environment characterized by effective communication, inclusive decision-making, and strong internal continuous quality improvement.

- Board/Council approved goals related to spiritual mission and Board/Council accepted performance indicators of the same |
3.3 The institution’s administrative team provides effective leadership to achieve the institutional mission and a clear Adventist identity.

- Job descriptions for top-level administrators
- A description of the process, with sample instruments, for performance appraisals and self-evaluations of top-level administrators, especially relating to the mission of the institution and of the Church
- Examples of the support of institutional mission and Adventist identity by top-level administrators

3.4 The organizational structure of the institution facilitates the fulfillment of mission.

- Organizational and committee charts
- A listing of all administrative staff and responsibilities
- An explanation of how the institution fulfills the expectation that all leadership positions are filled by individuals who are regular members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church
- A listing of all campus-wide committees, giving their membership, terms of reference, frequency of meetings, and inter-relationships
- An explanation of how key committees relate to the planning processes of the institution, including spiritual life
- A description of how organizational structure facilitates the fulfillment of institutional mission

3.5 The administration develops a Board-approved strategic plan that furthers institutional mission and is responsive to the constituent needs in the context of societal and educational trends.

- The long-range strategic plan for the institution
- An explanation of how the strategic plan was developed, was communicated to faculty, staff, and constituents, and is periodically updated
- A description of how the institutional strategic plan is guided by institutional mission, is based on an analysis of constituent needs, as well as institutional strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats, and is developed within the framework of institutional philosophy and values
- A representative sample of detailed, mid-range plans for institutional development and improvement, particularly those which directly contribute to mission
- Recent reports of administration to the Board of Trustees/Council regarding implementation of the strategic plan
3.6 The institution evidences best practice throughout its governance and administrative structure and process.

- A description of Board/Council frequency and location of meetings, as well as a description of its committees and their frequency of meetings
- An explanation of the quality of contacts of Board/Council members with the institutional community, and of procedures for receiving constituency input
- A description of the scope of the support of Board/Council members toward the institution
- A description of the arrangements that the Board/Council and the administration have in place to receive legal advice on institutional matters, including harassment, equal opportunity, conflict of interest, and compliance with government regulations
- A list of policies regarding hiring, employment conditions and benefits, and dismissal of officers
- A description and assessment of the process by which decisions of the Board/Council and the administrative committee are communicated to the faculty, staff, constituency, and students
- A description and assessment of the process whereby faculty, staff, students, and constituents convey ideas and concerns to administrators
- An explanation regarding how committee members are chosen to ensure representation and broad involvement of faculty and staff, and how committee actions are communicated
- An explanation of the role and voice of faculty and staff in administrative operation, and an assessment of the perception of its effectiveness by faculty and staff
- An outline of the policies and procedures the institution has in place to respond and relate to unexpected events and institutional crises, including press relations
3.7 The Board/Council and the administration evaluate the success of the institution, particularly in fulfilling its identity and mission as a Seventh-day Adventist institution.

- A description of the continuous quality improvement and assurance of educational and management processes as evidenced through outcomes
- A description of the processes in place for assessing institutional effectiveness, especially regarding the success of the institution in fulfilling its mission as an Adventist institution, with examples of how this feedback is used in institutional planning
- Examples of Board/Council evaluation of the institution’s Church-related mission, including the results of the most recent assessment
- Results from institutional research assessing the fulfillment of institutional identity and mission, including internal and external constituencies as well as current students and recent graduates
- Samples of institutional reports provided to internal and external stakeholders, particularly those relating to institutional identity and mission

3.8 Plans for development and improvement within this area.

Explanatory notes:

3a The strategic plan of the institution (at least 5 years, ideally with a dynamic window to the future updated annually) should be the result of campus-wide conversations involving faculty and staff, first in selecting the core values that the institution wishes to convey, and then in identifying strategic means of attaining these values. The strategic plan should include supporting documents for student enrollment projections, spiritual life development, financial resources, academic programs, faculty and staff, and infrastructure.

3b Typically, the committees of the Board/Council will include Audit, Compensation Review, and Academic Affairs committees, among others. The Academic Affairs Committee is typically chaired by the Union/Division Education Director.
Area 4: Finances, Financial Structure, and Industries

Standard: The institution has a financial operation that effectively supports institutional mission and Adventist identity, and that evidences efficient management and a strong financial base, including support from the church.

• A description of the policies and guidelines for student labor, including aspects of remuneration, supervision, and performance evaluation, among others
• An outline of the institutional industries and/or centers for training and development, including the off-campus sale of Adventist literature, to incorporate an organizational chart and description of managerial responsibilities and staffing
• A description of the performance of institutional industries in relation to institutional mission and goals, impact on institutional finances, and the level of provision of work for students |
4.6 The institution has developed a realistic financial plan aligned with its strategic plan.

- A three-year plan regarding operating finances
- Explanation of the process utilized to develop the financial plan, including the relationship between income and expenditure of prior years

4.7 The institution has a plan, policies, and processes in place for capital expenditures.

- Expenditures and budget for capital improvements and expenditures for the last, current, and following year
- Description of the process for the approval of plans for capital expenditures
- Explanation of the ability of the institution to adequately fund capital needs

4.8 Plans for development and improvement within this area.

Explanatory notes:

4a Examples of financial GC Working Policies include:
- Working capital (i.e., current assets above the total of current liabilities) should equal or exceed 20 percent of the operating expense, or, for interim statements, the latest 12-month actual operating expense of the latest complete fiscal year
- Liquidity—cash and bank plus securities and investments divided by total current liabilities and gross/certain allocated funds (see GC/NAD Working Policy S 25/73)

4b Examples of ways in which financial priorities reflect mission may include:
- Financial programs and policies provide opportunity for a greater proportion of Seventh-day Adventist young people who desire to receive an Adventist education to attend
- Financial programs and policies provide the means for a whole-person educational perspective, by means of a funded work-study program
- Service, witness, and spiritual life programs are adequately funded
Area 5: Programs of Study

Standard: The institution provides a curriculum that is of an equivalent standard to other tertiary institutions both in the country and within the Seventh-day Adventist college/university sector, and that meets the mission and objectives of the institution and church, preparing students for service in the church and in the broader society.

5.7 Plans for development and improvement within this area.

Explanatory notes:

Examples of integrational elements include an understanding of:
- God as the Source of all truth
- The role of revelation, reason, research, and reflection in the understanding of divine truth
- The foundational role of Scripture in each discipline
The great controversy between good and evil and how this affects each aspect of life
The elements and formation of a Christian life and worldview
The moral ethical dimensions of issues within each discipline and the role of biblical principles and values

Other integrational elements may be found in the “Statement of Philosophy,” available online at adventistaccreditingassociation.org, as well in essays provided by the Institute of Christian Teaching (ict.adventist.org) and articles on the topic published by The Journal of Adventist Education (jae.adventist.org).

5b The AAA expectation for religion courses in all programs is as follows:

- Undergraduate: Every teacher is encouraged and expected to integrate faith with the discipline in all courses. Three semester (four quarter) credits of religion courses are required for each year of full-time study for a minimum of 12 semester (18 quarter) credits for a four-year degree or 3 semester (4.5 quarter) credits for every 32 semester (48 quarter) credits. Half of the credits must be based on study of the Bible.

- Graduate: Every teacher is encouraged and expected to integrate faith with the discipline in all courses. Two semester (three quarter) credits of graduate-level religion/theology courses are required for each year of full-time study (or the equivalent). At least one course must be based on study of the Bible. These required courses may introduce new material at a graduate level or examine previous knowledge and attitudes so that understanding is reconsidered and synthesized in light of new learning, and accepted practices undergo the rigor of the thoughtful analysis. Team-taught courses in which disciplinary knowledge is combined with religion/theology are acceptable (e.g., business ethics, religion and medicine) but the prefix and primary oversight must come from the religion/theology department. Institution may adopt variable structures and provide evidence of attainment of student learning outcomes and content mastery otherwise covered through the inclusion of specific religion/theology coursework.

5c These may be provided through an institution's Bulletin, if it is up-to-date. Degree programs launched after the last accreditation visit must include the date on which they were recognized by the Seventh-day Adventist International Board of Education (IBE) or the International Board of Ministerial and Theological Education (IBMTE).

5d A description of the program review cycle should include when a program would be reviewed, justification for the need to review a program (e.g., tracer studies), and involvement of the various stakeholders, as well as the policies governing criteria and process for discontinuation of a program.

5e Criteria for new programs should include the following factors, listed in approximate order of importance:

1. Direct contribution of the program to the proclamation of the gospel
2. Response of the program to an expressed high-priority need of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, crucial to fulfilling its mission
3. Alignment with the mission, values, and strategic plan of the institution
4. Response of the program to a frequently expressed need of the constituency and broader community, most directly of the Seventh-day Adventist membership, for themselves or for their families
5. Probability of acquiring any needed national/regional approval and/or accreditation
6. Availability and sustainability of qualified faculty, particularly those who are committed to Jesus Christ and uphold the beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church
7. Availability and sustainability of sufficient number of students, particularly the maintaining of a critical number of Seventh-day Adventist students to ensure a clear Adventist ethos
8. Financial viability and sustainability of the program, especially in terms of its cost/benefit ratio (which considers the investment required to start up the program, the ongoing expense to operate the program, and the probable number of students in the program, evidenced through student enrollment trends in the region/country and the results of formal interest surveys)
9. Availability and/or acquisition of needed physical facilities (including laboratories), equipment, and library resources
Area 6: Faculty and Staff

Standard: The institution has a faculty and staff personally supportive of the institutional mission, effective in their transmission of both their discipline and biblical values in the classroom, along with administrative processes to ensure adequate faculty and staff development, and evaluation procedures that include mission-focused elements.

- Recent examples of ways in which the professional development experiences have contributed to a better understanding of the philosophy of Adventist education and the integration of faith and learning
- Results from faculty and staff assessments of institution-initiated professional development

6.3 Faculty and staff are effective in their roles as professionals and role models in a Seventh-day Adventist educational institution.

- A description of how faculty convey to students the mission, beliefs, and values of the institution and of the Church
- The institution's policies and procedures for evaluation of faculty and staff, including in any alternative learning modalities\(^6\)b
- A description of the overall system for the evaluation of faculty and of staff, including sample instruments encompassing teaching, research, mentoring, and participation in co-curricular activities, as relevant
- A description of ways in which the institution integrates institutional and denominational mission, beliefs, and values in faculty and staff evaluation
- A description of how results from faculty and staff assessments by students are used to enhance their effectiveness as professionals in an Adventist educational institution
- A description of how results from faculty and staff assessments by peers and/or supervisors are used to enhance effectiveness as professionals in an Adventist educational institution
- A description of the involvement of faculty and staff in local and wider church activities and responsibilities
- A listing of the scholarly research and publications of the faculty since the prior accreditation visit
- An explanation of how faculty service and research activities support institutional and Church mission
6.4 The institution fulfills the AAA expectation regarding the qualifications of faculty who teach religion courses in the various programs of study.

- A table identifying qualifications of faculty who teach religion courses in the various programs of study, including that they hold current ecclesiastical endorsement by IBMTE if teaching at least half time.

6.5 The institution has in place qualified faculty.

- A statistical table of faculty members by school and department, disaggregated by academic qualifications, academic rank, employment status (full-time or part-time/contract), years of teaching experience, years of institutional service, denominational affiliation, gender, and those upgrading academic qualifications.
- An explanation of institutional policies and procedures that ensure faculty fitness for the courses taught and the programs in which they are involved.
- An explanation of institutional policies and practices that relate to the number of contract/part-time teachers versus full-time teachers for the various programs.
- A description of the program for faculty and staff upgrading and professional development, including budget assigned for in-service training, attendance at workshops and seminars, and formal education, and the process and criteria whereby individuals are selected for release time and/or sponsorship.
- A description of the retention and stability of faculty and of staff.

6.6 Faculty and staff involved in any alternative learning modalities receive adequate training and support.

- A list of policies and practices regarding the training and qualifications of faculty and staff engaged in the teaching and supervision of alternative learning modalities.
- A description of the technical and/or curricular support provided to faculty engaged in alternative learning modalities.
- An explanation of the policies and practices regarding the workload and assessment of faculty engaged in alternative learning modalities.
6.7 Policies and procedures pertaining to faculty and staff evidence best practices.

- The current employee handbook, with an explanation of how it is reviewed and updated, and made available to faculty and staff
- Sample job descriptions of faculty and staff, and an explanation of the updating process and frequency, and the extent to which all employees have received a current job description
- An explanation of faculty/staff input in the employment process
- A list of policies and practices regarding teaching load, including an explanation of why these do or do not include committee work and administrative duties, student advisement, and involvement in research
- A list of policies and practices regarding academic rank, including an explanation of why these do or do not include years of teaching experience, research and publication, and service, including that rendered in the local community and to the denomination
- A list of policies regarding employment conditions and benefits
- An explanation of how the institution supports and encourages faculty research and publication
- A list of policies regarding the disciplining or dismissal of employees
- Sample service files, with an explanation of policies and procedures by which these are kept current

6.8 Plans for development and improvement within this area.

Explanatory notes:

6a Examples of related documents that can be provided include:
- The institutional statement of professional conduct
- Institutional policies and criteria regarding termination of employment
- Institutional grievance policies and procedures
- Samples of faculty and staff statements of philosophy and/or worldview

6b Aspects that may be incorporated in student assessments of faculty and staff include:
- Evidencing positive relationships with students, including mentor and role models
- Taking a personal interest in each student
- Communicating appreciation for the value and potential of the student
- Communicating confidence in divine revelation through the Bible
- Demonstrating biblical norms of conduct and an Adventist lifestyle
- Seeking opportunities to converse about spiritual matters and to guide the student to a personal encounter with Christ
- Helping the student develop a personal sense of mission

6c The AAA expectation is as follows:
- Undergraduate: All courses must be taught by a member of the religion/theology department who has a minimum of a master’s degree in the discipline or a master’s degree and 12 semester (18 quarter) graduate credits in theology/religion. Institutions may adopt variable structures and provide evidence of attainment of student learning outcomes and content mastery otherwise covered through the inclusion of specific religion/theology coursework. Institutions are responsible for justifying and documenting the qualifications of its faculty, including adjunct faculty.

- Graduate: All courses must be taught by a member of the religion/theology department who preferably has an earned doctoral degree in the discipline or a master’s degree and 18 semester (27 quarter) graduate credits in theology/religion. Team-taught courses in which disciplinary knowledge is combined with religion/theology are acceptable (e.g., business ethics, religion and medicine) but the prefix and primary oversight must come from the religion/theology department. Institution may adopt variable structures and provide evidence of attainment of student learning outcomes and content mastery otherwise covered through the inclusion of specific religion/theology coursework. Institutions are responsible for justifying and documenting the qualifications of its faculty, including adjunct faculty.
